

ABSTRACT

Disclosed are nucleic acid microarray devices and their method of preparation employing dendrimeric polyamines to bind nucleic acid probes to solid support surfaces thereby enhancing the surface molecule density and hybridization efficiency of nucleic acids in the microarray. Also disclosed are methods of using the resulting microarray device for analyzing test samples containing target molecules.